Law School Application Directions for the Human Rights Certificate

Please note, CLAS graduate students must use the online application process. A file with instructions is available on our website (http://humanrights.uconn.edu/academic/graduate/graduate.php).

Thank you for your interest in the Human Rights Certificate. The application process for law students is handled electronically via email. The application consists of a cover letter (included at the end of these instructions), a personal statement, a copy of your unofficial transcript, and a letter of recommendation from a faculty member. Students must apply for the certificate no later than the 10th day of the semester they are graduating to ensure a timely conferral of the certificate. Late applications will have the certificate conferred at a later date, and potentially face additional administrative fees.

The Personal Statement should explain your rationale for applying to the certificate program, including how the program fits with your academic and career goals (1 typed page max).

Please combine all of the application materials into one word document and email the material to Alyssa Webb, the Human Rights Certificate Administrator at Storrs (student2823@ad.uconn.edu) and Molly Land at molly.land@uconn.edu. Please do not include this instruction sheet as part of your application packet.

One letter of recommendation should be submitted directly to Molly Land at the law school. This letter may be submitted via email or a sealed letter may be submitted instead. Please ensure that the application materials are submitted before the letter of recommendations.

While not a part of the application, students must also complete a plan of study by March 1 of the semester they are graduating. The plan of study form for the certificate is available on our webpage (http://humanrights.uconn.edu/academic/graduate/graduate.php). Students should email their completed plan of study forms to both Professor Molly Land (molly.land@law.uconn.edu) and Alyssa Webb (student2823@ad.uconn.edu). The plan of study must be submitted to both people for it to be processed correctly.

Please direct any questions you have to Alyssa Webb at student2823@ad.uconn.edu.
